

How long does it normally take to build a site?

While some of the best ideas can come in only a matter of moments, websites are another story. We've been around for a while, and we realized long ago that cookie cutter websites that can be put together and made available online in one sitting are not worth the time! We create beautiful websites that take several weeks of work, contemplation, and revision after working closely with our clients on the overall product. Generally, a Premium Website package will take 6-8 weeks to complete.

The bulk of time is contingent on receipt of approved content to include images, text, and other descriptions. We will get your project done in the most efficient and effective way possible.
